Listen to the quiet. The imagery of a stand of trees, stark in a scene of pristine beauty. It reminds us of the quietness and purity of God's Son and the cleansing power of His love. The trees are a gentle reminder that in stillness there is strength. Listen to the quiet.

Inauguration

Bostrom Inaugurated as Fifth President

An estimated 1,000 students, community leaders, academic delegates, friends and alumni gathered in Founders Hall, October 31, to witness the inauguration of Fort Wayne Bible College's fifth president, Dr. Harvey R. Bostrom.

Representatives from colleges, universities, seminaries and educational organizations joined the FWBC faculty in the processional preceding the ceremonies, making for a most impressive scene on the bright, sunny October morning. The chairman of the governing board, Dale O. Ferrier, welcomed guests to the ceremony and delivered the "Charge to the President."

Dr. Bostrom, in an inaugural address with the provocative title, "Axe Heads, Fish Sandwiches, and Parchments," shared his thoughts on the direction the College will be taking the next few years and reflected on the vision the founding fathers had for FWBC some 75 years ago. Drawing his message from II Kings 6:6, Luke 9:12-17 and II Timothy 4:13, Dr. Bostrom said the priorities, as he saw them, were to let God's transforming power work through us to aid those who are lost and without hope, to be a compassionate people and react to the needs of the world, and to come to a fuller understanding of God's truth by being "diligent students of the Word ourselves."

Following the inaugural ceremonies, Dr. and Mrs. Bostrom greeted guests at a reception in Witmer Hall and then were guests of honor at a luncheon at a Fort Wayne restaurant.

WBCL Launches Sharathon '81

WBCL's annual SHARATHON took place January 13, 14, and 15. This year's special guests were Wayne Pederson of "Foot-prints" and "Discoveries" heard regularly on WBCL, and Paul Ramseyer of the Northwestern College radio network. This was Paul's first WBCL SHARATHON and Wayne's fourth.

The goal for SHARATHON '81 was set at $175,000. Last year the goal was $145,000 and was surpassed with pledges totaling some $167,000!

Jim Schweickart, station manager, comments on the SHARATHON; "Each year we trust the Lord to make SHARATHON a time of special blessing, encouragement, and excitement! We asked that all of the FWBC family support SHARATHON '81 with prayer, asking that the needs of the radio ministry be met and that above all, God be glorified by all that is said and done."

During SHARATHON, WBCL suspended its regular programming for a special time of sharing and praising that began at 6 a.m. the morning of January 13 and ended at 6 p.m. Thursday, January 15.

Bringing SHARATHON '81 to a close, a PRAISE RALLY took place Thursday evening, January 15, at 6:30 in Founders Auditorium on the campus of FWBC. Starr Nahrwold, recording artist, was the guest soloist for the PRAISE RALLY.

Cheryl Nimtz: "There's Nothing God and I Can't Do Together"

Columbus was the first explorer to sail around the world. Henry Ford was the first inventor to put together the automobile on an assembly line, and Cheryl Nimtz is one of the first women to be a member of the Fort Wayne Fire Department! That's right, after seven weeks of training, Cheryl and another young woman are now the first women firefighters of Fort Wayne.

Cheryl, a 1980 FWBC graduate, first heard of the opportunity for women to join the Fire Department on the news two years ago. She thought the job would be a real challenge, but put the idea aside and continued attending Fort Wayne Bible College where she majored in Bible.

Reprinted with permission of Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

After graduation last May, Cheryl applied as a short-term missionary with Campus Crusade, but her application did not meet the deadline. She felt real disappointment, but knew all things have a reason for happening. Then she remembered the news story she had put out of her mind a couple years back. She inquired, filled out an application and soon found herself involved in the physical, mental and practical training of becoming a firefighter.

Of course there were raised eyebrows and skeptical on-lookers, but overall she received the encouragement she needed to carry on through with the program. "My dad is also a fireman so he really encouraged me. My mom says I am just another family member she prays to God for daily protection. Another woman in the program also helped make the adjustment easier."

Cheryl is very pleased with how the firemen of Station #1, where she is on duty, have accepted her. "At first the situation was uncomfortable, but the atmosphere is getting better. The men seem to have a good attitude." The Fire Department has offered counseling sessions for the firemen and their wives in dealing with and developing a positive perspective toward a woman on the team.

So far Cheryl's firefighting experiences have been mostly housefires. While in training, planned fires were arranged in old buildings to give the class practical experience. "I have really learned to respect fire. I know I must stay calm and realize that no two fires are alike. I learn something new at each fire we are called to."

Although Cheryl did not make it to the mission field last summer, she finds that her present occupation is an ideal opportunity to share her faith. "The other firefighters know just by my actions and manner that I am a Christian. Hopefully in the future I will have the chance to talk openly about my faith with some of my co-workers."

Battling fires is no doubt dangerous business. Cheryl has her own formula for coping with the danger. "I don't worry about the fires I may meet during the day. I take one day at a time. There is nothing God and I cannot do together!"

Led by a Burden

A burden for the people of Israel and their peace led Jeff Carlson, WBCL announcer, his wife Cheri, and three others, Tom and Jeni Herndon and Pat Purcell, to Tiberias for three memorable months this past summer.

It all started two years ago when Jeff and Cheri went on a Holy Land tour in December of 1979. They didn't have the money to make the trip, but by faith made plans and applied for their passports. God supplied all the money in time to make the journey. After the tour they knew God wanted them to return to Israel.

Preparations to return began in January 1980 and the five of them left for Israel on May 1, 1980. An apartment overlooking the Sea of Galilee was home for three months. Five people sharing an apartment can be a real experience within itself! There were joyous times, hectic times, and even some humorous times! Jeff reflects back to one of those times, "I can remember the first day at the apartment. Tom and I decided we would light the oven for the women. After two hours of no success, we discovered the stove was electric!"

The first four weeks of the trip were spent in the apartment. With missionaries classified as illegal in Israel and then knowing little of the Hebrew language, being a witness for Christ was a challenge. Jeff relates, "We knew little Hebrew which made communication tedious. The first four weeks were spent fasting, seeking God's will and praying that He would direct our paths."

God heard and answered their prayers. Soon opportunities arose. After their neighbors realized they were not associated with the United Nations, they no longer shunned them and were more willing to become friends. Jeff comments, "We didn't push our Christianity on anyone. The Israeli people just don't go for that; they are a proud people. Our aim was to show Christ's love for them through our actions and accepting them for what they were."

As was said before, to be a witness was challenging. The Israeli people must bring up the subject of religion. The people have the view of "enjoy life today because tomorrow may not be yours." This perspective causes a real barrier in bringing across the point that our treasures are in heaven!

A special friendship was established with Zev Hearsh. Zev was Jewish, spoke English, and claimed to be an atheist. Although he claimed God did not exist, he thrived on the company of the group. He would visit often and always bring gifts with him. Zev knew he was with Christians even though little was said.

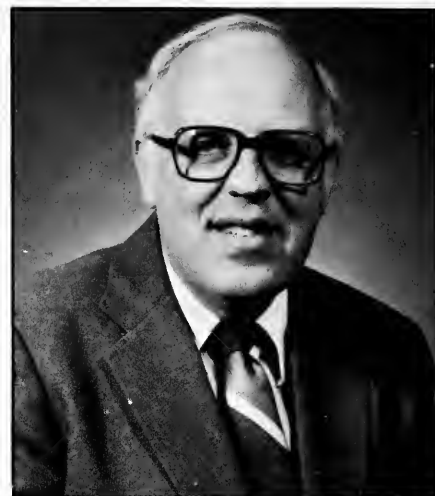

As time went along Zev began asking questions about God, their happiness and prayer. Prayer to Zev meant only to read words from a prayer book. Many hours were spent answering Zev's questions. Three days before Jeff and the others left to return to America, Zev accepted the Messiah as his Savior. "This was the highlight of our stay. I know God brought us to Israel to speak to Zev and have a part in bringing him to Christ. He is so dear to us. To say the least, our farewell was emotional."

Along with becoming familiar with the Israeli thought patterns and customs, they had to get used to several other facets of Israeli life. Inflation rises daily; no health standards; twenty-eight political parties; sky-high prices; few meat products and hot and humid temperatures with no air conditioning. Cars can only be purchased with cash on-the-spot and cost is in the area of $20,000.

Danger was never too far from the group either. "One night we thought there was a fireworks display taking place. We discovered it was combat between the PLO and The Lebanese Christian Militia a few miles away." God truly does take care of His own.

Jeff and the group returned to Fort Wayne on August 1. It was good to be home, but none in the group would exchange the experiences they had gone through during the past three months. Once again God has blessed tremendously!

President's Perspective

It is now five months since my appointment to the presidency of Fort Wayne Bible College. My experience here has been good. I came with a strong sense of His guidance, and I continue to feel His hand of blessing on me and on the institution.

I have met many new people in the Fort Wayne Bible College family. Faculty Retreat, dorm meetings, committees, Chapel, parties, and guests in our home, breakfasts and lunches with pastors in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio all have impressed on me that this school has a host of good, talented, and committed friends. This I see to be a significant resource. There is not only interest but confidence and even excitement about our institution — its present and future.

I am impressed with the quality of programs as well as with the genuineness of the spiritual dimension of life on our campus. We have a well qualified staff. Our financial affairs are managed with remarkable competence. Student Personnel, Registrar, Development, and Public Relations programs have integrity and are administered by experienced and trained people. The academic training combined with a warm love for the Lord and the student. Compassion goes hand in hand with challenge.

Our enrollment is good and looks strong for next year. Income is strong. Our supporting churches are a source of encouragement. Obviously, I am well pleased.

However, we do have needs. Income must continue to be strong, if we are to balance our budget for this year. We need wisdom as we continue to review and upgrade our programs. We desperately need a new Physical Plant Building. We need an in-house computer to enable us to operate more efficiently. But above all we need a constant outpouring of His Spirit on all of us.

We are greatly encouraged and anticipate continued strength and growth as we seek to provide a quality education for young people who are interested in serving Him.

FWBC Professors Write for Encyclopedia

Articles by four professors at Fort Wayne Bible College are included in the recently published first volume of the revised International Standard Bible Encyclopedia. Originally published in 1915, this is the first revision since 1929 and represents the scholarship of hundreds of contributors from many specialized fields of biblical research. Work on the first volume has been in progress for the past fifteen years.

Fort Wayne Bible College faculty members, Robert Hughes, Forest Weddle, Arlan Birkey and Gene Hovee have, between them, contributed a total of 51 separate articles to the encyclopedia. Most of the material in the new edition is new and the articles retained from the original edition have been completely updated or rewritten to take into account recent discoveries in archaeology and advances in other areas of biblical scholarship.

The first volume contains nearly 300 photographs and 100 maps and, to aid those readers with limited knowledge of the original languages of the Bible, the original Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek words have been transliterated.

Featured Alumna — A Trainer Of Trainers

Her guidance has influenced the lives of hundreds. Her counseling abilities have changed the direction of many paths. Her sweet spirit has created a calmness about her and her vitality has given encouragement to those who know her. Her name is Beth Mainhood, our featured alumna.

"I can remember, as a young girl on our Coleman, Michigan farm, having the desire to help others." That desire has been relevant throughout her life. A representative of the Navigator ministries for over twenty years, Beth has taken young women into her home, instructed them in spiritual commitment and Christian service, and watched them leave to go and do likewise. Yes, from shucking corn and cleaning the neighbor's basement to presently training potential Christian workers, Beth has devoted herself to others.

As was stated, her longing to be of service to those around her began at an early age. After graduating from Coleman High School, she knew she needed biblical training to be able to give constructive guidance to others. "I knew I had to have my roots in the Lord before I could help and instruct others." So, Beth ventured away from home and enrolled in the Chicago Evangelistic Institute.

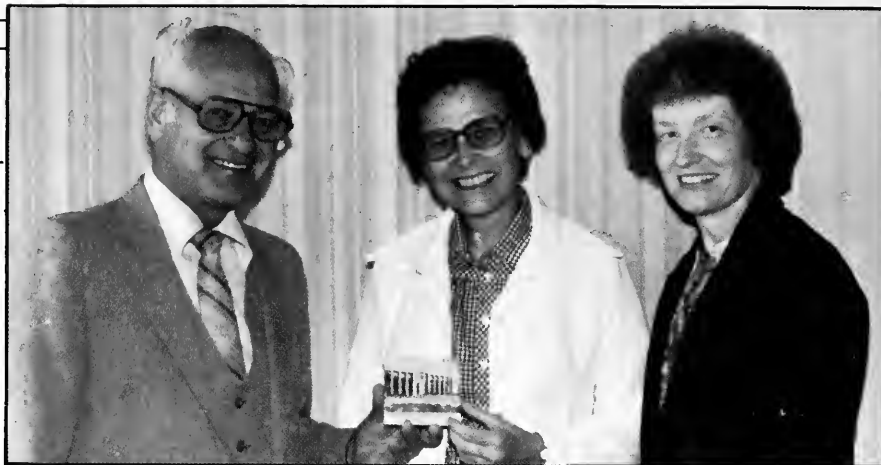

Beth attended the Institute for one year, then had to leave because of illness. In 1948 she was accepted as a student at Fort Wayne Bible College. She comments, "It was at Fort Wayne Bible College that I obtained my spiritual and social bearings. The authority of the Word was instilled in me at the Bible College. I have never had a struggle with its authority since!"

There were a lot of good times at the College for Beth. "There seemed to be so many rules in those days that I didn't realize I could break so many without even trying!" From sliding down banisters to good Christian fellowship, FWBC became special to her.

Beth was active in student government, band and Child Evangelism. Her Christian service experiences and classroom studies were vital to her spiritual growth. "I was taught by great men of God, such as Jared Gerig. I am still using material from many of my classes. I often implement ideas taught to me by my Old Testament Survey teacher, professor Carl Brown. Yes, Fort Wayne Bible College has played a very important part in my life."

Receiving the Christian Education diploma, Beth graduated from FWBC in 1952. She has also studied at Wayne State University and earned the Bachelor of Science degree in Education and the Master of Arts in Guidance and Counseling from Central Michigan University.

Beth's work experiences have been varied, including being a secretary, a public school teacher and a guidance counselor.

Howard Dunlap, Director of Alumni, presents Beth (center) a FWBC plaque during her visit to the Bible College. Joy Gerig, Director of Christian Service, and a long-time friend of Beth's, takes part in the presentation.

Five times she has had the opportunity to create new positions. Included were establishing the position of secretary to the head of the Geography Department at Central Michigan University, setting up an engineer's research library for the process development section of General Motors, and developing a guidance program for the Coleman Michigan Middle School.

These numerous opportunities were challenging and very significant in preparing her for her present ministry with the Navigators. Her first involvement with Navigators began with counseling individuals during Billy Graham Crusades and following-up with new converts. There have been joyous times and there have been times of spiritual, mental, physical, and emotional testing. "I am learning to trust God for situations and answers to my questions."

II Timothy 2:2 reads: "And the things you have heard me say in the presence of many witnesses entrust to reliable men who will also be qualified to teach others." (NIV) This verse is the basis of the "multiplication method" put into practice by the Navigators.

Beth has become a trainer of trainers. Currently she is the Women's Representative for the Ohio/West Virginia Navigators and assigned to community ministries in Columbus, Ohio. She is involved in personally training potential women laborers in Christian ministries. This involves having young women live with her for at least one year. Setting objectives, working toward becoming a total person, and making Truth relevant to daily living are just a few areas that she teaches both on a one-to-one basis and in small groups. The process includes setting up budgets, planning meals, implementing schedules, developing priorities and most of all, becoming sensitive and submissive to the working of the Holy Spirit as these young women are involved in ministering to other people.

Women who have been under the training of Beth have gone on to be pastor's wives, missionaries and nurses. They are now training others as they themselves were trained. Beth has been instrumental in the multiplication process. She has become precious to many!

Pride Award to FWBC

Fort Wayne Bible College recently received a "Pride Award" from Indiana's Department of Commerce for its participation in promoting "Energy Month." Under the direction of Mrs. Rose Ann Nickel, FWBC Instructional Services Center Director, a display was set-up in the library. The display included books, pamphlets, magazines and filmstrips about energy. The arrangement was viewed and studied by students, faculty and staff of the Bible College. The award was given in recognition of outstanding efforts to promote energy conservation.

Mrs. Rose Ann Nickel stands beside one of the displays set up to promote energy awareness.

Besides the tremendous responsibility of training young women, Beth is also a counselor and speaks at numerous seminars each year. Each seminar gives her the opportunity to meet more people and contribute in ways that only Beth can. Her occupation and life-style ring out boldly her desire to serve others — a desire that has been with her since childhood.

Beth's life has been filled with the working of the Holy Spirit and the fulfillment of God's will. She is characterized by personal application of the Word and having a part in ministering to people. When asked about the future, Beth responded, "I want to master the Bible in my lifetime. To do this I must always be a learner."

"Humble" and "beautiful" are words that come to mind when one hears the name, Beth Mainhood. From washing a child's bloody nose to helping a young woman prepare for the future, Beth has fulfilled her dream to be of service to others. Praise God for our featured alumna!

Alum Advisory Board Endorses Memorial Giving Program

At a recent meeting of the Alumni Advisory Board, action was taken to endorse a memorial giving program by FWBC alumni.

Alumni director, Howard Dunlap, said the board is encouraging all alumni to use memorials as a means of honoring former fellow students and friends. The College, upon receiving a memorial gift, will acknowledge the gift to the recipient or the recipient's family and in addition, it will be noted in the Memorial Book on display in the lobby area of Witmer Hall. Memorial gifts will also be noted in issues of PULSE/LIFELINES.

"We would like to get this program off in a big way the month of January," Dunlap said. "I hope that alumni will respond to this endorsement as I can think of no more meaningful way to honor someone than through a contribution to Fort Wayne Bible College."

Caring is important.

However, words often sound so empty . . . so inadequate to express what is in your heart when you attempt to communicate that you care to a family who has lost a loved one.

Many individuals find a deep personal satisfaction in making contributions to Fort Wayne Bible College in memory of someone special.

These meaningful gifts express to the family that you care, and at the same time make it possible for FWBC to carry on its ministries.

Upon receipt of your memorial gift, a card is sent to the family of the honored person. The amount of the gift is never indicated. You will also receive an acknowledgement of your tax-exempt gift.

Please use the coupon below when sending your memorial gift. You may also phone your request to us at 219/456-2111.

Judy Martin To Give Recital

Judy Hakes Martin, piano instructor at Fort Wayne Bible College, will give a piano recital on January 24, 1981 at 8 p.m. in Founders Auditorium. Having studied piano since age five, she has since carved a multi-faceted career, distinguishing herself in the performing arts, as well as developing the talents of others.

Judy holds a Bachelor of Music Degree in Piano from Indiana University School of Music, having graduated "with highest distinction." Prior to graduation, Judy traveled throughout Iceland and Greenland as pianist on a USO tour and has appeared with the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Ladies String Quartet in a Guest Artist Series. She has since appeared with the Mennonite Choral Society (Berne, IN) in the presentation of Handel's MESSIAH.

Falcon Basketball Report

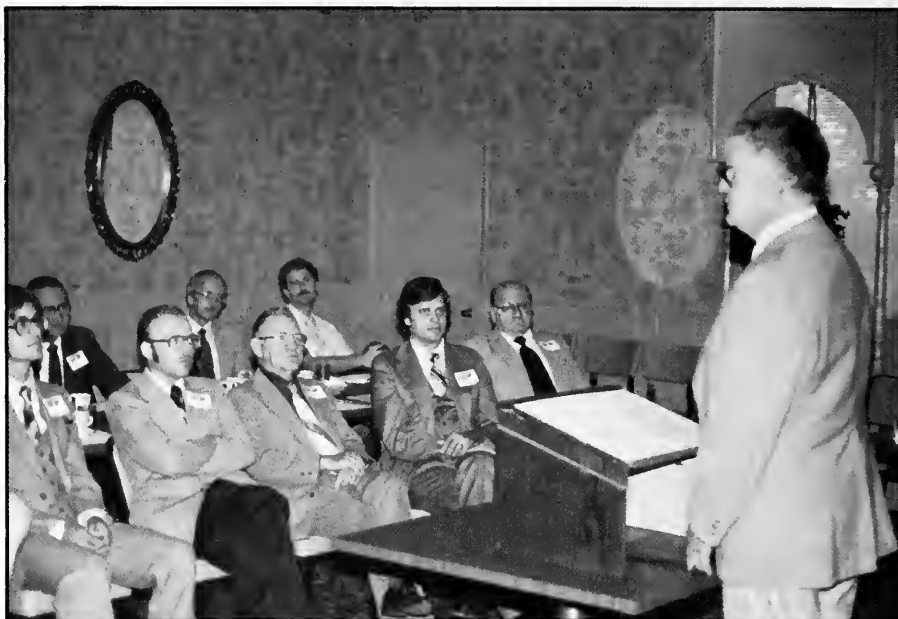

The basketball season is in full-swing with the Falcon squad marking one win and five losses as of December 11. The team is under the direction of Coach Steve Morley.

Calvin Rychener leads the team with a total of 105 points and rates second in free throws with a 77.7 percentage. Ranked second in total points is Steve Weir with 75.

Games played to this point are as follows:

	OPP.	FWBC
Bethel College	80	58
Northeastern Bible	65	67
Baptist Bible	81	50
Valley Forge Christian	104	86
Cincinnati Bible	105	85
Grand Rapids Bible	68	58

The Falcons finished last season with an 8-19 record. In the last five seasons, they have been district champions four times and regional winners three times.

FWBC president, Harvey Bostrom, speaks before a group of Fort Wayne pastors at one of a series of recent meetings he conducted in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois.

From the Director

Howard Dunlap

Greetings from the Alumni office, room 304 in Witmer Hall.

We have had a busy and rewarding time recently, highlighted by a series of twelve meetings between Dr. Bostrom, alumni and pastors in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. Cities visited were Detroit, Flint and Jackson, Michigan; Pettisville and Wapakoneta, Ohio; Berne, Elkhart and Fort Wayne, Indiana; and Peoria, Illinois. At each meeting, Dr. Bostrom gave a brief resume of how God led him to Fort Wayne Bible College. These were positive experiences and I appreciate the cooperation and participation of our alumni.

Let me encourage you to plan to attend one of the chorale concerts, a basketball game, alumni rally or an event on campus this year. The alumni office door is open to you.

We are looking forward to May 8, 1981. This is the day of the Alumni Banquet. Make this time of fellowship at Fort Wayne Bible College a high priority on your calendar. Class reunions are being planned and we plan to enjoy an excellent program which will include our own chorale and drama group. More information will be forthcoming.

The financial goal of $176,000 is a big goal for us, but attainable if we all get to work. As of this writing we have received $67,978.09. We now have 266 alumni as members of the Harvester Club and 34 alumni who are Ambassador Corp members. I hope many more of you will join one of these regular giving programs as regular giving to the College is very important to us. If you are interested in joining one of the clubs please contact us at the office. Fort Wayne Bible College needs you! You are the key to new students as well as to new friends and money. We ask you to pray for us and with us for the will of God to be done. I've often said, "I do not want more than God's will to be done, but I don't want to settle for less than God's will."

Let's believe God for a great '81!

"A Large, Flat, Warm Country" Oslo to Fort Wayne -Ingar Hansen

Fort Wayne Bible College takes pride in having students enrolled from all parts of the United States and several foreign countries. Students have come from Cyprus, South Africa and Jamaica to name only a few. This year a student has traveled thousands of miles from Oslo, Norway, to Fort Wayne, Indiana, to attend Fort Wayne Bible College.

Ingar Hansen, the son of a Norwegian painter, arrived in the United States on August 10, 1980. His parents, Herman and Ruth Hansen, and younger sister, Helga, made the long journey with their son. It was the first time any of the Hansen family had been in the United States. Ingar's older brother, Rune, did not make the trip.

After almost three months in the U.S., the Hansen family wished Ingar their best and returned to their home in Norway at the end of October. During their time in the States they stayed with friends in Camden, Ohio, and Berne, Indiana. Several Americans have visited Ingar's church, The Free Evangelical Church, in Norway. Through their visits the Hansen family has had the opportunity to develop friendships with many Americans.

You may be asking why did Ingar choose FWBC? Ingar came to the Bible College because he wanted to attend a college where he could study the Bible as well as concentrate on music. After a year in the States, he plans to return home and prepare to become a music teacher.

Ingar is a freshman taking twelve hours of college study. His classes include Voice, Piano, and Bible Survey. Along with his studies he is also a member of the musical Christian Service group, FOUNDATION. FOUNDATION is a seven-member ensemble with the goal to communicate a Christian testimony through a variety of musical styles. Ingar was active in the music program at his home church. He sings and plays the piano.

Ingar heard of Fort Wayne Bible College from Henry Beachey. Henry, a Berne resident, became acquainted with the Hansen family while visiting a church in Denmark. Henry sent Ingar information concerning the Bible College and from there Ingar made contact with the FWBC Admissions Department. When the Admissions Department learned that Ingar was considering attending the Bible College, they referred him to Dr. Hovee, academic vice president and acting dean, whose father is a native of Norway. Dr. Hovee speaks the Norwegian language and has traveled to Norway several times.

Ingar has done a commendable job of adapting to the U.S. culture and to college life. The fun and fellowship of dorm life has been a highlight since coming to the Bible College.

With no hesitation, he admits there has been a big adjustment from one culture to another. Although students in Norway are required to learn English, the language has taken some time to get use to. Ingar's family, with the exception of his father, can speak and understand English to some extent.

Ingar relates that he has had to get use to a "large, flat, warm country." Norway is only the size of the state of California and is covered with hills and mountains. Summers are mild and winter temperatures dip to 40 below zero!

Other differences he pointed out were a 24% tax on goods in comparison to the 4% state tax, and that Americans pay only half the price of meat that his mother does at the local store. Also, Ingar does not fully understand why Americans complain about the gas prices today, his family pays $3.50 a gallon in Norway!

Fort Wayne Bible College praises God for the ministry they have to countries other than the United States. It is the hope of the Bible College that other students, like Ingar, will hear about the College and seek God's will and help in coming.

Ingar is preparing for his second semester and then on to home. He is sure there will be many lessons and truths he will learn at Fort Wayne Bible College that will be present in his life for many years.

Alumni Come Back for an Afternoon of Basketball

Saturday, November 1, marked the third annual FWBC alumni basketball game held at the Concordia Seminary gymnasium in Fort Wayne. Many alumni, friends, and students gathered for an afternoon of fun and fellowship.

The preliminary game tipped-off at 1 p.m. with the alumni against the alumni. Bill Campbell and Mick Mills captained the teams. Bill's team came out the victor, ending with the exciting score of 65-63. It was a close game throughout! Several of the guys seemed to think the gym was just too big!

The second game placed the 1980-81 Falcon varsity team against an alumni team consisting of members of past Falcon National Tournament teams. Bruce Masopust ('72) led the scoring with 15, followed by Todd Habegger ('76) and Bill Sanders ('79) with 12 points each. The Alumni Tournament team won the game and all agreed they had a good time and appreciated Coach Morley giving them the opportunity to play the varsity team.

Bomb Victor Speaks at October Spiritual Emphasis

Rev. Patrick Shaughnessy, pastor of the Northwest Community Church in Phoenix, Arizona, and a 1969 FWBC graduate, was the featured guest speaker during the Spiritual Emphasis morning in October.

Rev. Shaughnessy shared his testimony during the morning with the student body through word and a slide presentation, telling how, on August 6, 1974, he was hurled twenty-nine feet as a result of a bomb explosion in an airport. His right leg was blown into four pieces; his left leg sustained six fractures, four of them in the ankle.

The situation was seen as an 'incident' not an 'accident.' He stated "God does not make mistakes. He intended this to happen to me for a purpose." Despite the physical handicap of an artificial limb, he has continued his ministry. He is currently in his second decade as Senior Pastor of Northwest Community Church in Phoenix. He has traveled to Korea and Japan on three preaching missions as well as to the Philippines and India.

During the second session of the morning, he emphasized that the Word of God is the Truth. He stressed that a daily study of the Word is vital to knowing the Truth and for spiritual growth.

Following the morning sessions, students had opportunity to meet with Reverend Shaughnessy and share with him their problems and what God is doing in their lives.

Nancy Lowry, of Thousand Oaks, California, provided a musical package during the morning. Nancy is a graduate of Fort Wayne Bible College and an outstanding musical performer.
